

India Today

7 simple design ideas to make your home celebration-ready

This season, home design embraces quiet luxury and personal expression. With simple updates, sustainable materials and a balance of calm and sparkle, your home can transition effortlessly from everyday comfort to festive elegance.

What design philosophy does Parul Mittal emphasize for year-end home updates? →

How does India's ultra-rich shift to mindful living impact home design trends? →

What Gemini horoscope themes align with 2025's celebration-ready home designs? →

DeeperDive 9314 | What design philosophy does Parul Mittal emphasize for year →

7 simple design ideas to make your home celebration-ready

India Today Information Desk
New Delhi, UPDATED: Dec 13, 2025 11:12 IST

They say a home is a reflection of who you are a canvas shaped by moods, memories and moments. As the year draws to a close, it is not just wardrobes or routines that deserve a refresh. Our living spaces do too. The year-end glow-up is not about doing more; it is about doing better. A few thoughtful updates, layers of texture and a hint of shimmer can make your home feel renewed and ready for new beginnings.

"Design, at its core, is an extension of who we are," says Parul Mittal, Director, Greenlam Industries. "The end of the year gives us a chance to reimagine our surroundings not just to beautify them, but to make them more personal and purposeful."

Interior design this season is being shaped as much by culture as by comfort. From the soft, nostalgic pastels popularised by The Summer I Turned Pretty to the understated elegance of fashion's quiet luxury movement, 2025 reflects a seamless blend of warmth and sophistication.

STORIES YOU MAY LIKE

I'm a Thakur: Bank employee abuses customer, tries to hit him in viral video	Sonam Kapoor's baby shower look champions effortless Indianwear. Inside pics	Prakash Raj removed from Sandeep Vanga's Spirit due to heated argument: Report
--	--	--

"Home design today mirrors the duality we see in pop culture nostalgia blending with modern minimalism, and simplicity elevated through layers of texture," Parul explains. Think sage green walls paired with buttery wood tones, metallic accents that add festive sparkle, and tactile surfaces that transition effortlessly from weekday calm to weekend celebration.

MAKE INDIA TODAY MY TRUSTED SOURCE | Add as a preferred source on Google

THE ART OF EVERYDAY LUXURY

Luxury today is less about excess and more about experience. It lies in materials that are thoughtfully chosen and spaces that feel intuitive and inviting.

"True luxury is found in balance between depth, durability and design," says Parul. A sleek matte or satin laminate can instantly elevate a compact bar nook, while a textured finish can turn a living room wall into a refined statement.

"You don't always need a complete makeover," she adds. "Sometimes it's the smallest touch a warm finish, a textured panel or a subtle highlight that brings a sense of celebration into your home."

SUSTAINABILITY AS THE NEW STYLE STATEMENT

As design sensibilities evolve, sustainability is no longer optional it is integral. Today's homeowners are increasingly drawn to materials that are as responsible as they are beautiful.

Greenlam's latest collection introduces three distinctive textures that reflect this shift. Barrel, with its refined woodgrain movement, lends itself to earthy, sophisticated interiors. Aran, inspired by fabric weaves, brings a sense of cozy warmth and softness. Canyon, a bold stone-inspired finish, offers dramatic depth for rugged, statement spaces.

"Design is evolving to reflect awareness," Parul notes. "It's about creating beauty that lasts both aesthetically and environmentally."

DESIGN TIPS FOR A CELEBRATION-READY, FEEL-GOOD HOME

As the season of togetherness approaches, Parul suggests approaching home dcor the way you would personal styling layering comfort with intention and a hint of celebration.

Natural shades such as warm beige, sage or sand create an elegant canvas. Laminate finishes in these tones offer versatility, durability and easy maintenance, making them ideal for both everyday living and festive gatherings.

Texture adds depth and dimension. Whether it's wood-textured cabinetry, stone-inspired wall panels or subtle fabric-like finishes, textured laminates create warmth and visual interest.

A thoughtfully designed nook, an accent wall or a custom laminate detail can instantly add character. The goal is to create spaces that invite people in cozy, expressive and uniquely personal.

Subtle metallic accents, super gloss laminates and soft lighting bring festive shimmer without overwhelming the room, ensuring your home feels elegant, warm and celebration-ready.