Chocolate over your floor

Who doesn't love the richness of dark cocoa and coffee beans? Whether in food, or in its purest form, this dark shade always invigorates a sense of warmth and comfort in your soul.

So much so, that people have started using this colour in their interiors. Dark, engineered wood floors are in big demand by people, a trend, to obtain this richness right in your living spaces.

The wood

The type of wood used for these dark floorings are also specific, and need to match the colour that you desire for. Dark old wood brings that naturesque feel to your home, adding a rustic and rugged effect to your interiors. Wood from exotic trees such as Oak, Walnut, Maple from around the world are acquired to make those floorings to give an aged yet sophisticated look to decor.

They are extreme and it is exactly the bold, stand out design that people today want. This type flooring sets the forest-in-your-home tone and creates a unified look, also helping out on the overall colour scheme of the surroundings. Mikasa Floorings offers these wood designs in a variety of options. Right under the umbrella of wood such as Oak, comes the beautiful colours of Oak Choco, Oak Fume, Oak Noir and Oak Amber, that add a sleek finish to the overall outlook.

Texture of these woods is also important, as each type adds its own charm and aesthetic value of nature in your home. Wide planks with few joint lines; smooth, wire-brushed, or distressed, any kind can bring out the beauty of knots and grain minerals present in the wood, that is welcomed as beautiful and chic decor art.

So what are you waiting for? Go for those beautiful dark floors now.
